WARM SPELL SUBSIDING

A Cool Wave to Quickly Follow the Extreme Hot Weather.

Shower's Predicted for Tomorrow, Which Will Change the Temperature to a More Comfortable Degree—Summer Clothes Out in Full Force—Thermometer Reaches 95.

"It is not so very warm," said Dr. Harry C. Frankendorf, Forecast Official of the Weather Bureau, this morning. "No record has been broken, although we are within five degrees of the highest mark reached by the mercury for this date. Tomorrow morning the heat will continue, and 'General Humidity' will take the field to make things interesting. The hot weather will be routed in the afternoon by thunderstorms, which will temper the atmosphere and be the forerunner of a cool wave. No warm weather after that is in sight at present."

Washington has been sweltering under a temperature which reached the maximum of ninety-four degrees at 8 o'clock yesterday. Every one made haste to don lighter clothing. Summer shirt waists were in evidence among the gentle sex, and straw hats were donned by the men, who left their vests at home. Umbrellas provided a defense against the torrid rays of the sun, and handkerchiefs were in demand for the mopping perspiring brows.

At 8 o'clock this morning the thermometer registered 72 degrees, but rising steadily it reached 95 degrees at midday. The mercury continued to climb in the early afternoon and by 3 o'clock had reached 95 degrees. There was a slight breeze blowing from the west, which, an hour, which served only to stir the dust without moderating the heat.

The present high temperature is due to the low pressure in the north, which has induced warm winds from the south and southeast. Abnormally high temperature prevailed except in the Pacific Slope region, the north and west of the United States, and the extreme upper Mississippi Valley, where there has been considerable rainfall.

The low pressure area in the North has reached the Gulf of St. Lawrence, and is passing off to sea. The eastward advance of a high pressure area now in the Northwest, will probably result in the cessation of the warm weather during Wednesday and Wednesday night. The forecast for the District of Columbia promises for tomorrow, threatening weather, followed by thunderstorms and a cooler atmosphere in the afternoon or evening, with fresh south and west winds. The warmest place in the United States at 8 o'clock this morning was Philadelphia, where the thermometer registered 94 degrees.

FALSE PRETENCES CHARGED.

J. Harry Ward Brought Back to Washington and Locked Up.

J. Harry Ward, a Cuban, thirty years of age, whose arrest at Norfolk, Va., at the instance of the local authorities, more than a week ago, was announced, was brought to this city last night by a deputy United States marshal and lodged in jail. Detective Miller went to Norfolk several days ago, attended a hearing at which Ward was arraigned, and returned here after securing a writ for the transfer of the prisoner to Washington.

Several charges of false pretences and larceny were made against the prisoner. While employed by Ashbury Cooper, a tailor, whose shop is at 433 Missouri Avenue northwest, Ward is said to have secured about $1,000 from his employer which amount he failed to remit to Cooper after his discharge. The accused is said to have secured orders for clothing in the name of Cooper, and to have used the money, also, to his own use. Ward is married and his wife lives at 204 L Street, northwest.

THE PRINTERS' ELECTION.

Organized Labor Generally Interested in Tomorrow's Contest.

The election for officers of Columbia Typographical Union, No. 101, which will take place tomorrow, was the chief topic of conversation today in local labor circles. The interest in the result is not confined solely to the members of the union. This fact is evidenced by the activity shown by some of the local labor leaders, members of other crafts, in advancing the interests of their favorites among the candidates.

According to many of the members of Columbia Union who claim to have been watching the course of events closely, the election is all over, except the counting of the votes. The friends of all the candidates are equally confident that their favorites will be given a majority at the polls. How the friends of the different aspirants figure out majorities for their candidates is not explained. Nevertheless, they contend that the result will prove the truth of their predictions.

THE STREET TO BE SPRINKLED.

Answer to C. H. Mayers' Prayer to the District Commissioners.

C. H. Mayers recently wrote to the Commissioners requesting that the two squares of Thirteenth Street northeast between Maryland Avenue and H Street be sprinkled.

"This street," says Mr. Mayers, "has never been improved and the dust rising from it is very oppressive during the summer months. The corresponding part of Twelfth Street, immediately west of us, has been improved. Yet sprinkling is done there and it costs nothing. I am sure that Thirteenth Street is not included where the service is so much needed."

The request was referred to Warner Stutler, the Superintendent of Street Cleaning, and he has reported back to the Commissioners that the street in question will be sprinkled regularly during the summer, beginning with May 14.

Professor Crowley's Trial.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., May 15.—Mrs. H. J. Crowley, of Cambridge, Mass., who claims to be the first wife of Prof. Hubert J. Crowley, now in the city jail charged with bigamy, forgery, and other crimes, arrived in the city yesterday, accompanied by her brother, Mr. Lennon, who has taken an active interest in the case. The professor's arrest here was made Monday. It is understood that the grand jury will take up the case today or tomorrow, and the trial will begin as soon as possible.
